

Dear Madam/Sir

Good morning. How U and everything? Please visit our volunteer trying new blog sasrai.com. You could put your worthy comment here ask your friend for the same that could contribute to develop it as earth friendly site.

Hope the best. sasrai.com

Sustainable consumption and production (SCP) patterns will be crucial to the realisation of sustainable development. Implementation of the 10 Year Framework of Programmes in support of national and regional programmes is needed, through strong intersectoral partnerships to accelerate the shift towards SCP.

Sixty-six percent of the world's work falls on women's shoulders, yet according to Oxfam they only earn 10 percent of the world's income. According to the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization, providing women farmers access to the same resources as men could reduce the number of hungry people in the world by 100-150 million. When women earn more, they invest more in the health of their families.

Altruism or selflessness is the principle or practice of concern for the welfare of others. It is a traditional virtue in many cultures and a core aspect of various religious traditions and secular worldviews, though the concept of "others" toward whom concern should be directed can vary among cultures and religions.

On the level of love, we are heartfelt, generous, nurturing, affectionate, steadfast, and forgiving. Love is protective, collaborative, uplifting, holistic, and gracious. It is characterized by warmth, gratitude, appreciation, humility, completion, vision, purity of motive, and sweetness. Love is a way of being. It is the energy that radiates when the blocks to it have been surrendered. It is more than an emotion or a thought—it is a state of being Step Up for Disaster Risk Reduction - To let the world know that children and young people are partners in reducing disaster risk. Children Charter) five points identified by the children:

- Schools must be safe and education must not be interrupted
- Child protection must be a priority before, during and after a disaster
- Children have the right to participate and to access the information they need
- Community infrastructure must be safe, and relief and reconstruction must help reduce future risk
- Disaster Risk Reduction must reach the most vulnerable people

- World was experiencing “more frequent and more intense natural disasters,” overall momentum was growing for a sustainable and disaster-resilient future.
- “We have to act. Disaster risk reduction saves lives and cuts losses.”
- The course towards global sustainability will inevitably start in Sendai for three major reasons – disaster risk reduction inherently involves forward planning; investments in this area advance both sustainable development and climate action; and the vision for development and climate action is a universal one.
- “We are working for a life of dignity for all,” sasrai-Movement aimed at combat the Climate Change, Global Warming, Poverty, Hunger, Disaster - ensure Peace, Justice, Dignity and Rights for Each.

Scientists opine

- Commercial growth, technology, consumption destabilizing global environment, diminishing organism, threatening earth existence.
- 18 percent food production may dive by 2050 due to global warming
- Due to Climate Change Africa Will Starve and Asia Will Drown in 30 Years
- Climate Change may drown 15 Cities

Absolute truth for today's world advertisement administered consumption prompt indefensible production that contributes climbing temperature, climate change, global warming that shaping a disastrous and hungry world that breeds millions of distressed people. Desperate populace will act desperate they riot, fight over food, hug lawlessness, create mayhem that's the curse for each.

Earth urges prudence in consumption. Scientists presume resource consumption might be twice by 2050 than earth can afford. Increased production will affect nature, water, forest, arable land and the level of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere would be in deadly point of no return. Humanity is in need of climate and resource responsible individual, humanity. Need Each baby Caring to Each particle of resource, have mindset save a bit, reserve, preserve, rejuvenate and conserve resources for habitable earth.

Scientist Opine

- We have already crossed four “planetary boundaries.” They are the extinction rate; deforestation; the level of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere; and the flow of nitrogen and phosphorous (used on land as fertilizer) into the ocean. Scientist shown human activities — economic growth, technology, consumption — are destabilizing the global environment,”
- “Human security will be progressively threatened as the climate changes,” the UN's Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCCC) warned in its overview report. The Pentagon agrees. “Rising global temperatures, changing precipitation patterns, climbing sea levels, and more extreme weather events will intensify the challenges of global instability, hunger, poverty and conflict,”
- Scientists estimate that humans will consume twice as many resources as the planet can support by 2050. At the rate things are going, the Earth in the coming decades could cease to be a “safe operating space” for human beings.
- Africa Will Starve and Asia Will Drown in 30 Years Due to Climate Change
- People in Asia and the Pacific are four times more likely to be affected by natural disaster than in Africa and 25 times more than in Europe or North America?
- Global warming could cause an 18 percent drop in world food production by 2050
- 15 Cities Threatened by Climate Change
- The World Bank alarm bells are just the latest to sound about the the havoc climate change and man-made global warming will cause to the planet.

- The World Health Organization predicts that climate change will cause 250,000 additional deaths per year around the globe between 2030 and 2050, primarily from malaria, diarrhea, heat exposure and malnutrition.

Absolute truth for today's world careless consumption driving untenable production that driving changes in temperature and weather patterns and that's the Hotter and Hungry World. Hungry world will contribute millions of desperate people. Desperate people do desperate things: They riot, they fight over food, they overthrow governments, and the mass migrate to food-secure countries.

If we don't smarten up in consumption, scientists estimate that humans will consume twice as many resources as the planet can support by 2050. The consequences grow more and more severe as forests shrink, water becomes scarcer, arable lands diminish, and the level of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere approaches a deadly point of no return.

The changing climate impacts society and ecosystems in a broad variety of ways. For example climate change can increase or decrease rainfall, influence agricultural crop yields, affect human health, cause changes to forests and other ecosystems, or even impact our energy supply. Climate-related impacts are occurring across regions of the country and across many sectors of our economy. Many state and local governments are already preparing for the impacts of climate change through "adaptation," which is planning for the changes that are expected to occur.

Environmental impact and sustainability have been at the heart of the school's planning, leading to the formation of an advisory panel chaired by Harvey Brooks Professor of International Science, Public Policy and Human Development Bill Clark, focusing on issues ranging from energy consumption to building materials to recyclables in the cafeteria.

The school expects a LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) gold certification for all new buildings (with some aspects receiving a platinum certification). The use of a more sustainable HVAC system using chilled beam technology will help minimize energy use. The school is also pursuing the use of solar photovoltaics on the roofs of the new buildings.

02. The World Health Organization predicts that climate change will cause 250,000 additional deaths per year around the globe between 2030 and 2050, primarily from malaria, diarrhea, heat exposure and malnutrition. The health threat will be worse in developing nations, where people are generally more exposed to the elements and advanced medical care and sanitation are less available. But studies show that Americans won't be exempt, especially those who live in the nation's low-income communities, children and the elderly.

At the rate things are going, the Earth in the coming decades could cease to be a "safe operating space" for human beings. That is the conclusion of a new paper published Thursday in the journal Science by 18 researchers trying to gauge the breaking points in the natural world.

The paper contends that we have already crossed four "planetary boundaries." They are the extinction rate; deforestation; the level of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere; and the flow of nitrogen and phosphorous (used on land as fertilizer) into the ocean.

"What the science has shown is that human activities — economic growth, technology, consumption — are destabilizing the global environment," said Will Steffen, who holds appointments at the Australian National University and the Stockholm Resilience Center and is the lead author of the paper.

Humanity in need of Climate Responsible Community, Climate Compatible Development

We must get Each baby Caring to Each particle of Food

sasai ONLY THE PATH TO SAVE MOTHER PLANET EARTH, NATURE. It's only the path to Eliminate Racial Discrimination - End violence against WOMEN and CHILDREN. sasrai only the path to end POVERTY, VULNERABILITY, HUNGER, DISASTER, CLIMATE Threat. Each second, minute, hour day needed to be spent considering earth, environment and humanity. We must get each child caring to each particle of food and resources. Wish the Peace, Justice, Dignity and Rights for all - save a bit, reserve, preserve, rejuvenate and conserve resources.

'study the past if you would divine the future'.

Melvyn Bragg examines the philosophy of Confucius. In the 5th century BC a wise man called Kung Fu Tzu said, 'study the past if you would divine the future'. This powerful maxim helped form the body of ideas, which more than Buddhism, more than Daoism, more even than Communism has defined what it is to be Chinese. It is a philosophy that we call Confucianism, and as well as asserting the importance of learning from the past it embodies a respect for hierarchy, ritual and parents. But who was Confucius, what were his ideas and how did they succeed in becoming the bedrock for a civilization? With Frances Wood, Curator of the Chinese section of the British Library, Tim Barrett Professor of East Asian History at SOAS, the School of African and Oriental Studies at London University, and Dr Tao Tao Liu, Tutorial Fellow in Oriental Studies at Wadham College, Cambridge University.

The GODS need no defense, it is we who are a beleaguered human civilization. Learning to appreciate what is grand in people's rituals could be a way to bring some harmony among different people. Faith is a very private matter and it is wise to let it be that way. The human race will soon be finished if we do not learn to collaborate in our diversity.

15 Cities Threatened by Climate Change

Mumbai, Guangzhou, Shanghai, Miami, Ho Chi Minh City, Kolkata, Greater New York, Osaka-Kobe, Alexandria and New Orleans; almost equally split between developed and developing countries.

Floods, increased storm activity, and rising sea levels will only increase in the coming decades. These major cities could pay a major price. Beware: Rising Waters Ocean views may not be so sought after in the coming decades, as rising sea levels could wreak havoc on some of the world's most popular cities and vacation spots. Today roughly 40 million people around the world are exposed to catastrophic-grade coastal floods. Typically, these occur only once in 100 years. But the number of people who could be majorly affected by such weather events could rise to 150 million people by 2070, based on an ongoing report done by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. The report analyzed world cities most vulnerable to the effects of climate change—namely rising sea levels and increased storm activity. Here are the top 15 cities that could find themselves hit by dangerous flooding in the coming decades.

“Although individual decisions may seem small in the face of global threats and trends, when billions of people join forces in common purpose, we can make a tremendous difference.” UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-Moon

Nature never bother super power or poorer - demand absolute Care

“The world is heading for irreversible and potential catastrophic climate change”,

Nature Rebellious - Look at repeated threat/attack from Nature - Australia, Africa, New Zealand, Brazil, Pakistan, Japan, Iran, Myanmar, Thailand, USA, Russia and Indonesia. Nature never bother super power or poorer - demand absolute Care.

To get the earth habitable for the next generation

Need harmony in thinking, talking, acting, designing, devising the initiative among the lead organization across the globe, is urgent. Present totality denotes that we are yet to find the desired path. Only, only and only the path is sasrai for the habitable earth. Each of us Street beggar to state driver - Must have feeling 'HOW MUCH LESS CONSUMING I COULD BE'. At first we should have significant change in mindset, attitude and behavior.

Change doesn't happen by accident. Change takes time, dedication, and most importantly, it takes leaders. The climate crisis can be solved, but only if each of us do our part. Let's raise our voice - sasrai ONLY THE PATH TO SAVE MOTHER PLANET EARTH, NATURE. It's only the path to Eliminate Racial Discrimination - End violence against WOMEN and CHILDREN. sasrai only the path to end POVERTY, VULNERABILITY, HUNGER, DISASTER, CLIMATE Threat. Each second, minute, hour day needed to be spent considering earth, environment and humanity. We must get each child caring to each particle of food and resources. Wish the Peace, Justice, Dignity and Rights for all - save a bit, reserve, preserve, rejuvenate and conserve resources.

Climate change threatens our planet, the world economy, and our lives -- and it will impact young people the most. It's only fair that they get a chance to demand answers and action from the leaders who are responsible for protecting their future.

November 11, 2014

I believe in my uniqueness. The power of my soul is infinite. The whole world is mine. I will go wherever I want have wherever I desire and get whatever I need. I will serve everyone regardless of religion, caste or creed.

Shafiq Bhai
Greetings

It's not necessary to take that I could have assessed everything in a short time. What I am saying right now this is my observation only of 5/6 hours of November 10, 2014 and 10/12 years of 15 years back. I am sure still there is enough scope to rearrange your achievement orientation. I am a bit shocked getting expression on your achievement that day. I don't ignore the establishment of Primary school at remotest place. But I believe if you are created for establishing Varsity and you are content having Primary there – that's really a sin. APJ Kalam opines dreaming small is a great sin. Based on my previous learning about you I have to frustrate on your expression. Now I believe our coldness was almighty decision and that 15 years given me chance to enjoy and realize the extreme poverty that does bestow some needed learning.

You have started scholarship for Nijhumdwip well. Why there shouldn't be an aim it will encompass Hatiya, Noakhali, Tangail -----Bangladesh, Asia -----Earth.

There is a common answer of a Bangalee I don't like to take such a load you are not the person to utter same. Why people will remember you when you don't shoulder the responsibility for them. Why don't you have an aim to develop scholarship for the student of global warming, climate change, solid waste, consumption slavery, new thought for national and global development? Yes you might have question how we could proceed? Have a data base on resource pool. Get the list of your friend and their friend and their friend. There may be 10000. Ask them to contribute/donate the cost of one cigarette and one cup tea/coffee (25 to 80 taka based on their status) daily. Let's consider the least 10000 x 25= 250000 BDT every day. Ponder how much in month/year and 10 year.

Yes I do agree this is not such a easy. But you will agree 100% with me there must be someone to start the process. Why you are not that very pioneer? You are not on earth to be a simple secretary -- owner of 2/3 flat, industry, big Bank balance, some costly car, establish few Primary School, 2/3 college, 2/3 NGO only. Who told you that you are not here create new dimension Varsity across the globe.

Dream big – result must be big and global community guided by you. Your every second must contribute for the humanity. Use of facebook must be targeted 5/6, needs to be defined the learning and teaching. Person on earth of bigger vision and mission cannot use it like a housewife or I can say time killer.

I am sure you could remember that very line I can Fast, I can Love, I can Wait ----holy meditation. Last one month I am requesting repeatedly, learn meditation. Well you may not like what Quantum Contributes for the nation/globe. You could give them your suggestion. So far I have seen they are open enough to accept your suggestion. Well they may not accept your one. Feel free we will start our way. But I feel you need to visit them and this is very urgent.

I believe nature demand rethinking/rearrangement of your mindset. You must have a vow again – I am here for a bigger mission needs to be fulfilled. You please say yourself 'I am a great man blessed by all needed quality, I am capable and I will do it accordingly.' Tell it in meditative level. Meditation is nothing but look at to the self/soul in a solemnly mood and explore own quality and capability bestowed by the omnipotent, omnipresent, omniscient, compassionate almighty.

Let's tell to the self repeatedly - I am a cosmic traveler. With death I will start the next phase of my cosmic journey. My last word will be the name of my Lord. Eternal joy will be mine. In life I will be the refuge of millions. In death they will say goodbye with tears. As a source of everlasting inspiration I will live in the joy, sorrow, problems and promises of successive generations.

Appeal 2014 Nature and Human Security

21st century advances and the global population rises, competition for water, energy and natural resources will cut across policy agendas, from trade and investment to agriculture, infrastructure and defense. Climate change, biodiversity loss, and ecosystem mismanagement reflect cumulative governance failures and act as a threat multiplier to economic and social sustainability. Citizens across developed, developing, and least-developed countries will find it increasingly difficult to rely on governments or insurance companies as systemic vulnerabilities escalate. In areas worst-affected by drought, flooding, declining crop yields, and health threats, "climate migrants" will leave their homes and land.

Appeal 2014

Predictions of climate-induced displacement are shocking – 200 million people by 2050. Since 1990, when the UN Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) suggested that large-scale migrations might represent the "greatest single impact" on world security, scientists have scaled up their predictions and highlighted the risks associated with slow-onset disasters (such as sea level rise, droughts, and environmental degradation) and rapid-onset disasters (such as earthquakes, fires, and hurricanes). In 2014, the IPCC has acknowledged the multitude of climatic and non-climatic drivers of migration but says that there is no question that "human security will be progressively threatened as the climate changes."

ROME, Dec 18, 2014 (Thomson Reuters Foundation) - Global warming could cause an 18 percent drop in world food production by 2050, but investments in irrigation and infrastructure, and moving food output to different regions, could reduce the loss, a study published on Thursday said.

Globally, irrigation systems should be expanded by more than 25 percent to cope with changing rainfall patterns, the study published in the journal Environmental Research Letters said.

Where they should be expanded is difficult to model because of competing scenarios on how rainfall will change, so the majority of irrigation investments should be made after 2030, the study said.

"If you don't carefully plan (where to spend resources), you will get adaptation wrong," David Leclere, one of the study's authors, told the Thomson Reuters Foundation.

Infrastructure and processing chains will need to be built in areas where there was little agriculture before in order to expand production, he said.

International food markets will require closer integration to respond to global warming, as production will become more difficult in some southern regions, but new land further north will become available for growing crops.

Based on the study's models, Leclere expects production to increase in Europe, while much of Africa will remain dependent on imports.

If climate change is managed correctly, food production could even rise 3 percent by 2050, the study said, as a higher concentration of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere has a fertilizing effect on plants. Managing water resources is expected to be the biggest challenge for farmers stemming from climate change.

Water "may become dramatically scarcer much earlier than previously thought," Michael Obersteiner, another study co-author, said in a statement. (Reporting By Chris Arsenault; Editing by Tim Pearce)

To address national eco-security `Needs Each Kid responsible to Each Particle of Resources - Environment. Wish the Peace, Justice, Dignity and Rights for all - save a bit, reserve, preserve, rejuvenate and conserve resources.

The climate crisis can be solved, but only if each of us do our part. Let's raise our voice - sasrai ONLY THE PATH TO SAVE MOTHER PLANET EARTH, NATURE. It's only the path to Eliminate Racial Discrimination - End violence against WOMEN and CHILDREN. sasrai only the path to end POVERTY, VULNERABILITY, HUNGER, DISASTER, CLIMATE Threat. Each second, minute, hour day needed to be spent considering earth, environment and humanity. We must get each child caring to each particle of food and resources. Wish the Peace, Justice, Dignity and Rights for all - save a bit, reserve, preserve, rejuvenate and conserve resources.

Climate change threatens our planet, the world economy, and our lives -- and it will impact young people the most. It's only fair that they get a chance to demand answers and action from the leaders who are responsible for protecting their future.'

US Experts Say Climate Change is Threat to National Security. In February, the Partnership for a Secure America published an open letter signed by 38 United States national security experts urging President Obama and Congress to take action on climate change as a threat to national security. The letter states that consequences are undeniable if inaction continues. "The cost of inaction, paid for in lives and valuable US resources, will be staggering," it states. "Washington must lead on this issue now."

Climate change can seem like a remote problem for our leaders, but the fact is that it's already impacting real people, animals, and beloved places. These Faces of Climate Change are multiplying every day. Fortunately, other Faces of Climate Change are multiplying too: those stepping up to do something about it.

Planet is at a turning point cause Person crazy to Profit, Property and Possession. Planet under irreversible Catastrophic Climate Change sequences Famine and Flood, Severe Storm, Coast line Vanish and Ocean Rise. We must get Each Child Caring to Each Particle of Food & Resources. Wish the peace for each to ensure rights for all - save a bit, reserve, preserve, rejuvenate and conserve resources.

Being "thrifty" means spending one cent as if you have only half a cent. This is an old Chinese saying to warn people to handle affluence without forgetting about a potential crisis. Underlying this common sense is an ethic rooted in Chinese culture: wasting is bad.

President Xi Jinping has urged Chinese people to "build a thrifty society", because if we persist with our business-as-usual production and consumption pattern we would invite a resource and environmental crisis.

One consequence of high energy and/or resource consumption is environmental pollution. Five of the seven major river systems in China are polluted, and their water quality at 40-50 percent of the monitored points is below the level III national standards. Since early this year, people living in North China have experienced serious air pollution. And air pollution, according to a Chinese Academy of Social Sciences report, shaves off up to 9 percent of China's GDP.

Natural resources are limited, so is the capacity of the environment to cope with their loss and subsequent pollution. By continuing with unchecked growth, we will deplete the resources and over-saturate the environment with pollutants. Technology could be a solution, but the development of technology can never match the pace of the current production and consumption levels.

What then is the solution? The answer is "building a thrifty society".

In a thrifty society, wealth is created both by saving and production. If we save energy, we can make do by generating less energy. The difference is that unlike a power plant, saving energy does not require resource conversion-coal/oil and water to electricity. The energy and environmental constraints China faces make it clear which solution is the right one.

It is encouraging to see some Chinese practice "thrift" in their own ways. For example, a company in Xiangyang, Hubei province, has set up a unit near the city's wastewater treatment plant. It recycles the sludge from the wastewater treatment plant in its bio-digesters to produce purified methane, which powers one-third of the city's taxis. Had it not done so, the methane - which is a 25 times more potent than carbon dioxide over a 100-year timeframe - from the wastewater treatment plant would have polluted the atmosphere.

The World Bank paints an incredibly bleak picture of the effects of global warming on the most vulnerable regions of the planet. Major Asian cities underwater. Millions trapped in poverty. Africa plunged into drought and plagued by food shortages. Flooding of Biblical proportions.

No, that's not the plot to some summer blockbuster set to hit theaters this weekend. That's what a new report from the World Bank says will be our reality within our lifetimes thanks to global warming and climate change.

The alarming report shows what only a two-degree celsius rise in global temperatures will do to our planet within the next 20 to 30 years. Among the scariest conclusions:

- Events like the mammoth Pakistan floods of 2010—which affected 20 million people—will become commonplace, and the monsoon season could bring a major crisis.

- Manila, Mumbai, Kolkata, Ho Chi Minh City and Bangkok could find themselves underwater or threatened by intense cyclones and water shortages.
- By the 2030s, droughts and heat will render 40 percent of current maize-growing land unusable. By the 2050s, depending on where you are on the continent, the proportion of the population that is undernourished will increase by 25 to 90 percent.
- People everywhere will be forced into urban areas, exposing even greater numbers of people in informal settlements to disease, pandemics, heat waves and floods.

"This new report outlines an alarming scenario for the days and years ahead—what we could face in our lifetime," said World Bank Group President Jim Yong Kim. "The scientists tell us that if the world warms by 2°—warming which may be reached in 20 to 30 years—that will cause widespread food shortages, unprecedented heat-waves, and more intense cyclones. In the near-term, climate change, which is already unfolding, could batter the slums even more and greatly harm the lives and the hopes of individuals and families who have had little hand in raising the Earth's temperature."

15 Cities Threatened by Climate Change

The World Bank alarm bells are just the latest to sound about the the havoc climate change and man-made global warming will cause to the planet. Last week, TakePart laid out exactly what the world has learned in the seven years since An Inconvenient Truth kickstarted the global conversation on climate change, and former Vice President Al Gore challenged President Obama to finally "get serious" about tackling the issue.

Fact

- Over 96 percent of all disaster-related deaths worldwide in recent years have occurred in developing countries.
- Women and children account for more than 75 percent of displaced people following natural disasters.
- Dry lands are characterized by low rainfall and high rates of evaporation. They occupy 41 percent of Earth's land area and are home to more than 2 billion people.
- Half of all people living in poverty live in dry lands.
- Growing desertification worldwide threatens to increase by millions the number of poor forced to seek new homes and livelihoods.
- Since 2000, the world has witnessed over 35 major conflicts and some 2,500 natural disasters.
- Children are more likely than adults to perish during natural disasters or succumb to malnutrition, injuries or disease in the aftermath.
- Around 3 billion people cook and heat their homes using open fires and leaky stoves burning biomass (wood, animal dung and crop waste) and coal.
- Indoor air pollution is estimated to cause approximately 2 million premature deaths mostly in developing countries. Almost half of these deaths are due to pneumonia in children under 5 years of age.
- Urban outdoor air pollution is estimated to cause 1.3 million deaths worldwide per year.
- Diarrheal disease is a leading cause of child mortality and morbidity in the world, and mostly results from contaminated food and water sources. Worldwide, around 1 billion people lack access to improved water and 2.5 billion have no access to basic sanitation.

"For the past 7 years, a German shepherd called Capitán has slept next to the grave of his owner every night at 6pm."

"He [Capitan] turned up here one day, all on his own, and started wandering all around the cemetery until he even...tually found the tomb of his master," the cemetery's director, Hector Baccega, told the newspaper. "During the day he sometimes has a walk around the cemetery, but always rushes back to the grave. And every day, at 6 o'clock sharp, he lies down on top of the grave stays there all night."

Stephen William Hawking (8 January 1942) is an English theoretical physicist, cosmologist, author and Director of Research at the Centre for Theoretical Cosmology within the University of Cambridge.^{[15][16]} Among his significant scientific works have been a collaboration with Roger Penrose on gravitational singularity theorems in the framework of general relativity, and the theoretical prediction that black holes emit radiation, often called Hawking radiation. Hawking was the first to set forth a cosmology explained by a union of the general theory of relativity and quantum mechanics. He is a vigorous supporter of the many-worlds interpretation of quantum mechanics. Hawking is an Honorary Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, a lifetime member of the Pontifical Academy of Sciences, and a recipient of the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the highest civilian award in the United States. Hawking was the Lucasian Professor of Mathematics at the University of Cambridge between 1979 and 2009.

Hawking has achieved success with works of popular science in which he discusses his own theories and cosmology in general; his A Brief History of Time stayed on the British Sunday Times best-sellers list for a record-breaking 237 weeks.

Hawking has a motor neuron disease related to amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), or Lou Gehrig's Disease, a condition that has progressed over the years. He is almost entirely paralysed and communicates through a speech-generating device. He married twice and has three children.

Salzburg Global Seminar is hosting a strategy session to design a multi-year program to connect and accelerate actions addressing the challenges of mass migrations resulting from climate change. Salzburg Global will convene top practitioners, researchers, and economic actors to crystallize what is known about the likely patterns and timeframe of climate-induced migration and assess practical options for refugee policy; urban demographics, absorption capacity, disaster preparedness and resilience; innovations for food and water supply systems; international and national legal, financial, and practical tools and frameworks; the interlocking long-term nature of trans-boundary and global climate and ecological risks and costs; and regional and national security.

Program Objectives and Outcomes

This program seeks to focus attention on:

- 1) The interlocking long-term nature of trans boundary and global climate and ecological risks and costs;
- 2) The need to allocate responsibilities to prevent and manage disaster risks effectively and efficiently to protect vulnerable sectors of society and future generations; and
- 3) The legal, financial and practical tools already at the disposal of business, the international community, governments, local authorities and other stakeholders.

The goals of the strategy meeting in December 2014 will be to:

- Finalize and prioritize program focal areas;
- Frame key questions, ensuring that interconnected issues along the entire prevention-response continuum are included;
- Identify first-movers and change-makers that must be at the table; and
- Select strategically-significant geographical areas where in-country follow-up would gain maximum traction and visibility of efforts.

Building on the outcomes of this strategy session, Salzburg Global's multi-year series will initially focus on three interconnected dimensions of climate-induced displacement: legal protections, planning for resilience and regional and national eco-security. Each presents major transnational, economic, and governance challenges that will directly affect the functioning and cohesion of societies in the future.

Quantum

Our mission is to help every human being fulfill his true potential by awakening his inner power. We are striving together to build great compassionate community, where the value of every human life will be upheld, where every human being will be able to flourish his unique talents, enlighten his soul, prosper naturally, and live a meaningful life by serving humanity

Quantum Method is the science of well being. It starts with helping us change our attitude. The new attitude gives birth to new dendrites, i.e. new connecting paths between the neurons in our brain. The brain becomes vibrant and energized. The new working structure of the brain gives birth to new thoughts, words and deeds. Anxiety dissolves in peace, disease in health and failure in success. We live long, healthy, active and strong.

- Quantum's Objective:

Our mission is to help every human being attain peace, health and success by developing his talents and fulfilling his true potential. At the same time, we want to give each individual a chance to join hands with others and contribute to the community. We believe, even ordinary people, when together, can bring extraordinary changes. It is however, most important to help each individual blossom fully, because unless the individual flourishes, the society or state can never flourish. Thus our goal is to help each individual blossom physically, mentally, emotionally, and spiritually; then use the power of togetherness to guide the world in the path of well being.

Quantum's activities?

We have two main types of activities, ensuring personal growth and serving humanity. Our personal growth programs help individuals be more successful in every aspect of life including education, family, health and career.

Our human service programs bring the most essential services to the most deprived people. From self reliance and safe drinking water projects; to providing mother care, circumcision and burial services; to bringing up abandoned or disadvantaged children as enlightened human beings; all our programs are uniquely beneficial.

- Where do Quantum's funds come from?

Quantum believes in self reliance, self initiative and self financing. Every penny comes from donations from our members and well wishers. The Quantum Charity Bank is the most popular source of fund. However, we have other funds as well.

- What does 'Quantum' mean? Why are we called Quantum?

Quantum Mechanics along with neuroscience and genetic engineering has changed the world view of modern people. With the advent of Quantum Mechanics, human consciousness has once again been established as a major actor in natural phenomenon. Science and the teachings of ancient spiritual masters have been reconciled. This is why we decided to name this modern scientific representation of eternal truths Quantum Method. Also, when a person engages in profound meditation his consciousness takes a leap similar to the Quantum leap of electrons orbiting around the nucleus. This is another reason we were inspired to name this Quantum Method. Finally, the literal meaning of Quantum is the exact or optimum amount. Quantum is the science of living, the science of well being. It helps us establish the optimum balance in our lives. Thus the name.

- How can I be involved with Quantum?

There are many ways to be involved with Quantum. Join the Quantum Method Course: The best way to be a part of Quantum is to join the Quantum Method Course. The Quantum Method Course is held in Dhaka almost every month and in other parts of the country at regular intervals. Once you complete the course you automatically become a life-long member of the Quantum family.

Donate: You can become involved by donating to Quantum Charity Bank and other funds such as the Shishukanon fund, Shishushodon fund, safe drinking water fund, burial fund etc.

Donate Blood: Donate blood to our blood center, or if you are abroad donate blood on behalf of Quantum, and be a part of the largest donor pool in the nation.

Join Free Programs: Join free programs such as Alokaion (Self Empowerment Program), Sadakion (Weekly Group Meditation), Alokito Poribar Karjokrom (Enlightened Family Program) or Quantum Yoga Course.

Start Meditating: You can download meditation right now from this website and start meditating. Little by little you will enter a world of divine peace. You too will be one of the thousands of travelers in the path of peace, health and success.

During the twentieth century, Quantum Physics, Neuroscience and Genetic Engineering have revolutionized the world view of the scientifically inclined. What was for ages a matter based science, bounded by Newtonian Mechanics, has now transformed to a Science that is reliant on consciousness. The post-modern perspective of western Physics has now merged with the world view of eastern spiritual masters, with the Essence centred world view.

In the latter half of the 19th century, based on the laws of Newton and Maxwell, Physics presented a well organized view of the universe. In that view of the universe, everything happened according to some set laws, in which the scientist had no role to play. He was a mere observer. The whole process was independent of the observer and his mind. Albert Einstein was the first to strike the first blow to this view when he published his famous 'Theory of Relativity' in 1905. This theory first introduced the observer in establishing physical reality. The scientist who is observing the physical phenomenon became an active participant in the process.

With the growth of Quantum Mechanics, the role of the observer became more and more important in explaining physical phenomenon and scientific theories. The mind of the observer became an important variable in the framework of physical theories and explanations. This revolutionary change in scientific thought process amazed Quantum Physicists. They engaged deeply in the study of the human mind and philosophies. Never before in the history of science has so many leading scientists published books or articles based on the philosophical or moral implications of their research work.

Werner Heisenberg, one of the founders of Quantum Physics, wrote in his Philosophical Problems of Quantum Physics that research on laws of nature is no longer confined within the realms of fundamental particles alone. It is now concerned with our knowledge about these particles, i.e. with the contents of our mind. Edwin Schrödinger, who formulated the fundamental equation of Quantum Mechanics, wrote an extraordinary book called Mind over Matter in 1958. In the light of the new scientific theory, he expressed his wholehearted support for the spiritual world view of philosopher Aldus Huxley. Schrödinger was the first amongst Quantum Scientists to express his solidarity with the philosophical view of the East. Since then, scientists have written scores of books on the subject. Amongst these, two that are immensely popular in the West are, 'The Tao of Physics' by Fritjof Capra and Gary Zukav's 'The Dancing Wu Li Masters'.

Since Darwin's time, numerous attempts were made to explain human behavior simply as a biological process. Biological processes, in turn, have been explained as an outcome of physiological activities. In his 'The Dragon's of Eden', Carl Sagan represents this point of view very effectively. "What we sometimes call mind is the brain. The activities of the brain are nothing but an outcome of activities of different organs and physiological processes. There is nothing here that can be called a mind." Molecular Biologist Francis Crick writes in his 'Of Molecules and Men', "All biological sciences must be explained according to Physics and Chemistry".

No matter how we try to explain mind or life, we have to start with the mind and return to it in the end. For example, we may try to explain the human mind - along with its thoughts and consciousness, as an activity of the Central Nervous System. This in turn can be explained as the outcome of various physiological systems. Secondly, physiological activities at any level can be understood in terms of molecular science. Every physiological activity can be explained as the actions and reactions of the carbon, oxygen, nitrogen, hydrogen and other molecules. In order to understand atomic science fully, we have to understand it through Quantum Mechanics, and Quantum Mechanics is intimately related with the human mind. Every process in Quantum Mechanics is incomplete without reference to the mind of an observer.

In his Astitter Atolante (The Depths of Existence), Syed Shafiullah, a noted scientist of Bangladesh, says while explaining the spin of Sub-atomic particles "We will most likely be in trouble if we try to compare the spin in the atomic or sub-atomic levels with the spin in the visible world. Whenever we think of spinning around an axis, we need to think of a direction. We think of a reference axis. To find out the direction of electron spin, we can use an electro-magnetic field as the reference. The amazing thing is, no matter how we set the reference field; the electron spin will be always aligned to it. It is almost as if, the electron knows in advance how the observer is going to set his reference field. To say the same thing differently, it is the observer's mind that decides what the result of the observation would be. This reminds us once again of the dominance of mind over matter. On one hand, this is an important aspect of the universal uncertainty with regard to spin. On the other hand, spin is a constant reality in the subatomic world. It is this spin that creates the diversity in the atomic base of molecules, initiates chemical bonds and from that the festival of life."

A statement of Nobel-winning neuroscientist Sir John Eccles is significant in this regard. Neuroscience has flourished in the last 30 years. The main subject of research is the human brain. Although science has learned a lot about the human brain in the last few years, our knowledge about the brain is still at the elementary level. In a conference of parapsychologists, while answering a question about whether the mind can influence matter, he said, "When we think, the carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, and oxygen atoms present in the neurons of our brain move with every thought. The atoms of carbon, hydrogen etc is matter-based whereas thought is independent of matter."

Another branch of science that radically changed our world view is Genetic Engineering. At the heart of this science are the DNAs and RNAs present in our cells. It is with the aid of information stored in these DNAs and RNAs that the essence of life thrives and contracts. By changing the information in these 'information store houses' we can influence the development of life. This reality reaffirms the dominance of consciousness and information over matter.

Nobel winning scientist Eugene Wagner has summarized the modern scientific take on the mind and consciousness wonderfully in his "Remarks on the Mind-Body Question." He writes, the majority of physicists have accepted the truth that thought-consciousness is the actual basis. "It is not possible to formulate of the laws of Quantum Mechanics in a fully consistent way without reference to the consciousness". In the conclusion of his book, he says, "Scientific study of the world led to the content of consciousness as an ultimate reality." With these comments, modern science has joined forces with the mind-centred world view of eastern spiritual masters. Modern people have been inspired once again to use the power of consciousness, the infinite power of the human mind, for the benefit of mankind. Quantum Method is the easiest and most effective method for using the infinite power of the mind.

Happy Valentine's Day to the Nature

Approximately 48 percent of consumers spend money on candy and 34 percent spend money on flowers, and about 35 percent dine out.

Workers in these industries, including service workers and farm laborers, are among the lowest paid in the world. They face exposure to pesticides and sexual harassment in the workplace.

Valentine's Day is the highest grossing day for the US$600 billion restaurant industry; yet the 4.3 million tipped workers in the United States only earn US$2.13 per hour. Unfortunately, this rate has remained the same for more than 23 years.
